PROFILE

Indigi-Print is a full-service print management company. Focussing on quality printed products with outstanding service at competitive prices, we are committed to delivering your print requirements seamlessly.

We provide clients Australia wide with access to the most modern print technology available as well as being able to meet social procurement supply chain needs. Through our wholesale supply chain, Indigi-Print prioritises other Indigenous businesses or social enterprises, ensuring your print spend makes a lasting impact on Australian society.

As an Indigenous owned business certified by Supply Nation, your organisation can be part of the growing social procurement movement. The Indigenous business sector is growing at a rapid rate and your print spend and purchasing power can create serious change and positive social outcomes. Supplier diversity is a significant way in which you and your business practices can help build the Indigenous business and social enterprise sector even more.

Indigi-Print is grounded on social equity goals and Indigenous development initiatives such as employment opportunities and discrete project support which promote the advancement of Indigenous communities and people.

Whether it be a small run of business cards, your annual report, corporate signage, a series of merchandise, graphic design and everything in between, we can help so please get in touch.

A COMMUNITY PARTNERSHIP

Luruk-In is an Australian Aboriginal Art business, founded by proud Taungurung, Wotjobaluk, Wemba Wemba and Boon Wurrung woman Aimee McCartney. Aimee was born and raised on Wurundjeri country in Naarm, Melbourne and currently lives on Gunaikurnai Country (Victoria).

An emerging contemporary Aboriginal artist, Aimee's vibrant approach to life coupled with her strong ancestral and cultural identity allows her to create unique, intricate and eye-catching artworks on canvas. With a mixture of bright colours and textures, Aimee explores modern society through the looking glass of the world's oldest living culture.

Aimee's strongest inspiration comes from her Country, its waterways and mountains, its sand, soil and shells. Aimee's hope is to continue the sacred tradition of Storytelling through art and to inspire people to connect and learn about First Nations' culture, history, stories and language.

As part of our ongoing efforts to prioritise other Indigenous businesses and communities, Indigi-Print has partnered with Luruk-In to commission some deadly artworks for our future promotional activities. Indigi-Print and Luruk-In encourage all businesses and organisations to seek out and use Indigenous business to create lasting change for these smaller, family-owned companies. Your spend can make a profound difference.

CAPABILITY AND CAPACITY

Indigi-Print utilises advanced technology to ensure we provide our clients with high quality print products and quick turnaround times. Our broad network of wholesale suppliers guarantees our clients have access to the latest and greatest in print, all through one point of contact. We specialise in digital printing, a wide range of signage solutions as well as merchandise and apparel.

Indigi-Print prints up to B2+ sheet size and on a wide range of substrates, ensuring that each job is completed swiftly without compromising quality. We love coordinating print projects and it is what we're great at. Below is a short list of the types of projects that Indigi-Print can help your organisation with.

- Reports, brochures, binding bulletins and flyers, certificates, Reconciliation Action Plans
- Business cards, letterheads, envelopes, stickers and branded stationery
- Mesh Banners & Site Signage
- Wall, window and floor decals, corflutes, aluminium composite signs, pull-up banners, posters, media walls
- Lanyards, reusable coffee cups, t-shirts, hoodies and other promotional items
- Embossing, spot UV, foil and other embellishments
- And a lot more

In addition to our print management services, Indigi-Print can also manage the design process helping your project run seamlessly start to finish. Our network of graphic designers across Australia are experts in designing for print products. Their ability to both adhere to existing corporate branding as well as incorporate Indigenous artistic services extend from one-page informational brochures, reconciliation action plans, annual reports through to Indigenous inspired signage for meeting rooms and larger installations. We value the input of clients into the design process and ensure that clients are kept informed and are listened to from the concept phase through to delivery.

COMMUNITY SUPPORT

Having Indigi-Print support both the Woorangalook Victorian Koori Surfing Titles and The Australian Indigenous Surfing Titles has added a massive amount of value to both events.

The event merchandise that Indigi-Print has supplied for the event has meant that all participants have been able to take-home high-quality wearble products.

These t-shirts and jumpers are highly prized by all the participants seeing them wear them proudly not only at the event, but at home and other community events around the country.
